SENSATION IN TRIAL OF LIQUOR CASES AT UNIONTOWN

Five Citizens Arrested on Bench Warrants Charged with Jury Tampering

ALL ARE ADMITTED TO BAIL

Bench warrants were issued Monday morning by the Fayette county court for the arrest forthwith of E. Newton Newcomer, of Republic; Logan Rush, of Cornellsville; William Franks, of Uniontown; and Edward Layton and Malcolm Ferguson of Belle Vernon, charged with attempting to influence jurors in the Monaghan liquor case, scheduled for trial in the Fayette county courts this week. All of the defendants appeared in court and gave bail for a hearing.

The sensation came as a result of information furnished the District Attorney's office by the Rev. E. A. Hodil, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church of Uniontown, that L. B. McCann, a member of Rev. Hodil's congregation, had been approached Saturday evening by Mr. Newcomer in an effort to bribe him as a juror in behalf of the liquor defendants. When the case was called for trial private counsel for the Commonwealth informed the court that they had reliable information that the jury had been tampered with and asked that a juror be examined.

Mr. McCann was called to the stand and testified that Mr. Newcomer called at his home in Uniontown on Saturday between 10 and 10:30 o'clock and attempted to influence him. He said Mr. Newcomer had no other occasion to call at his home. He was first asked if he was a juror for this week, to which he replied in the affirmative. "I was also asked if I would throw the case out and I said 'no.' There was something said about $100 but nothing was said as to when it would be paid," he continued. The court said that was sufficient and ordered a warrant forthwith for Mr. Newcomer. The Commonwealth then asked for an examination of all the jurors, and it was 12:45 before this task was completed.

As a result of the examination, bench warrants were issued for other defendants, who it was testified had approached men drawn for jury service and who were in court ready to serve.

E. J. Mackey of Belle Vernon, testified that he had been approached by Ed Layton and Malcolm Ferguson of Belle Vernon, regarding the cases. He said Mr. Ferguson met him first and told him there was a man in town from near Uniontown looking for him and that there were a couple of liquor cases up this week and there would be $100 for him if he got on the case and didn't convict. He said two hours later he was leaving his home with his wife when he was approached by Layton who made practically the same offer. He said he understood the money was to be paid in the court house after the trial. Mr. Mackey told both of them there was nothing doing with their "dirty $100 proposition." Private detectives are now in Uniontown as the result of the above exposure, and are keeping a close watch on affairs. Two liquor cases went in favor of defendants against positive testimony that liquor had been purchased at certain places in Fayette county.

WOMEN SERVE ON CORONER'S JURY

Five Monongahela women on Tuesday served on the jury called by Coroner Greenlee to investigate the death of Patsy Moran, who was asphyxiated near Courtney, January 5. It was the first instance in this county, and probably in the State, of women performing this duty. The jury was composed of Samuel P. Yohe, foreman, Mrs. Margaret V. Leyda, Mrs. Mabel S. Barclay, Mrs. Jennie E. Fields, Mrs. Sarah Landefeld and Mrs. M. Lyda Stathers.

Moran, who was employed by the Philadelphia company, met his death while assisting in repairing a gas main on the Gault farm, being overcome by the escaping gas. Several of his companions were also overcome, but all of them recovered. The inquest was delayed until James Clark, superintendent of the labor crew, who was also gassed, was able to appear as a witness. The jury found that Moran had met his death by not obeying instructions in regard to that particular piece of work.

Membership Committee Goes Over Entire List

The Membership Committee, consisting of J. B. Tussing, Harry Price, L. J. Mitchell, R. V. Golden, W. M. Darby and W. S. Sweeney, met last evening at the Chamber of Commerce and went over the entire membership. The committee was exceedingly well pleased with the interest that the membership is showing in the Chamber of Commerce, and especially with a large number of members who have paid their entire dues for the year in advance. The committee decided that they would ask the Board of Directors of the Chamber to provide a small card for each member which might be easily carried in the pocket, and which would indicate that the member is in good standing in the local Chamber and has paid his or her dues; also this card would entitle the holder to courtesies in similar organizations in the United States and countries with which we have commercial relations. In addition, the committee would ask that a placard be provided for each member. This placard would be four by six inches, made of celluloid, and bearing the date 1921 and the words "Member of Charleoi Chamber of Commerce." This committee will hold its next meeting at the Elks' Club on Friday noon of this week.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Directors will be held Thursday at four o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce. The most important matter to be discussed by the board at this meeting will be Gov. Roads; and especially the road between the Howe cemetery and Twilight.

The Forum Committee consisting of Guy Moffitt, chairman, Mrs. R. H. Rush, M. T. Crowley, T. L. Pollock, and W. H. Milliken, will meet at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Thursday evening of this week.

The Committee on Parks and Playgrounds, composed of I. T. Daniel, chairman, Harry Geho, Henry L. Swickey, Minnie E. Richardson and J. R. Carroll, will meet Friday evening in the Chamber of Commerce.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MISS SARA EDWARDS

Funeral services for Miss Sara Edwards, who died as a result of bites from a mad dog at the home of her mother in Pittsburgh on Sunday morning, were held from the late home of the deceased in Roscoe Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were in charge of Rev. Dr. Henry pastor of the M. E. Church, and the music was furnished by a quartette composed of Prof. and Mrs. I. T. Daniel, Mrs. Jack Hewitt and Omer Morgan. By request the quartette used three selections, "Jesus, Savior, pilot me," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." The attendance of friends was very large. Interment took place in Howe cemetery.

MAKE ANOTHER TRY TO DIVIDE TOWNSHIP

Proceedings were again started on Monday in court at Washington looking toward the division of West Bethlehem township into two townships. Similar proceedings were instituted several months ago. Viewers were appointed and after many hearings and the calling of many witnesses, the report filed was unfavorable, the viewers suggesting that it might be favored were different division lines proposed. It appears the objections were that the lines of division suggested in the first petition did not make an equitable assessment in the separated portions.

In the petition filed on Monday the division line follows very closely the divisions of the voting precincts in the township. The question then came on the appointment of viewers, the petitioners favoring the old board, while those opposed desired a new deal. The court appointed Grant E. Bess, William Wylie and John S. Lee to hold the view and make a report to court.

West Bethlehem has been divided in sentiment for some time over the location of a high school, opinion being very evenly divided between Marianna and Scenery Hill. The township is ten miles long and six miles wide.

THE MAXIMUM AND MINIMUM CLAUSE

The National Foreign Trade Council recently appeared before the Ways and Means Committee in advocacy of a bargaining tariff which will prevent discriminations by foreign countries against American products. The council stated that "discrimination may be prevented either by levying additional duties on goods coming from countries which discriminate against American exports or by granting concessionary reductions of duty on goods coming from countries which do not discriminate against us, or by a combination of both policies."

The plan first suggested will probably be the one adopted by the Republicans in the next tariff law, and this will be by way of the maximum and minimum clause which was carried in the tariff law of 1909, and which has recently been approved by Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee. Inasmuch as there will be considerable discussion of that clause when the next tariff debate takes place, it may be apropos to quote it as it appeared in the tariff act of 1909:

"From and after the 31st day of March, 1910 * * * there shall be levied * * * on all articles when imported from any foreign country into the United States * * * the rates of duty prescribed by the schedules and paragraphs of the dutiable list of Section 1 of this act, and in addition thereto, 25 per centum ad valorem, which rates shall constitute the maximum tariff of the United States; Provided, That whenever after the 31st day of March 1910, and so long thereafter as the President shall be satisfied, in view of the character of the concessions granted by the minimum tariff of the United States, that the government of any foreign country imposes no terms or restrictions, either in the way of tariff rates or provisions, trade or other regulations, charges, exactions, or in any other manner, directly or indirectly, upon the importation into or sale in such foreign country or any * * * product of the United States which unduly discriminates against the United States or the products thereof and that such foreign country pays no export bounty or imposes no export duty or prohibition upon the exportation of any article to the United States which unduly discriminates against the United States or the products thereof, and that such foreign country accords to the * * * products of the United States treatment which is reciprocal and equivalent, thereupon and thereafter, upon proclamation to this effect by the President, * * * all articles when imported into the United States * * * from such such foreign country, shall * * * be admitted under the terms of the minimum tariff of the United States as prescribed by Section 1 of this act. The proclamation issued by the President under the authority hereby conferred and the application of the minimum tariff thereupon, may, in accordance with the facts as found by the President, extend to the whole of any foreign country, or may be confined to or exclude from its effect any dependency, colony or other political subdivision having authority to adopt and enforce tariff legislation, or to impose restrictions or regulations, or to grant concessions upon the exportation or importation of articles which are, or may be, imported into the United States, and the President is directed to keep Congress informed in the matter."

The Council, in its brief, calls attention to discriminations in Italy, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria, and Portugal against American cottonseed oil; to the remission by England of 66 per cent of the export duty imposed by India on exports of hides and skins, and to reduced rates on many products imported into Great Britain when coming from other parts of the Empire; also to administrative regulations in South American tariffs which injure American export trade in those countries. The maximum and minimum clause will put a stop to those discriminations just as it did within two months after its adoption August 5, 1909.

"Brazilian Grass."

This is a name incorrectly applied to a substance used in the manufacture of a cheap kind of hats known as Brazilian grass hats and also known as chip hats. It consists of strips of leaves of a palm, which are imported to Great Britain and elsewhere for this manufacture, chiefly from Cuba.

They Travel Fast and Long.

Every year 260,000,000 silkworms produce 60,000,000 pounds of raw silk. It has been estimated that, taken all together, the world's silkworms spin every year at a velocity of about 4,700 miles a second a thread of approximately 150,000,000,000 miles in length.

Craze for Orchids.

HAVE BRIEF SPAN OF LIFE

Most Placer Mining Camps Flourish for a Little While and Then Pass Into Oblivion.

Exceptions to the rule governing mining camps, hectic activity and quick decay, are Helena, site of a one-time noted placer camp, and the fine city of Denver, where, in the summer of 1853, James H. Pierce panned out a little gold from a sandbar near the mouth of Cherry creek, a discovery that fired the expectations of thousands and started the historic rush to Pike's peak country.

The fine and progressive city of Lewiston, Idaho, is another exception to the rule of oblivion that has been the almost unvarying fate of placer camps. While, strictly speaking, Lewiston was not a placer camp, but the outfitting point at the head of steamboat navigation, for the stampede into the clear-water region, in the early '60s, it was a placer camp in other respects, and in the wild spirit of early-day gold hunting.

With the sailing away of the steamship Victoria, bearing 350 Nome residents, most of whom announced their purpose never to return, the brooding spirit of melancholy came in with the long, long winter. Again the "wolf's long howl" is heard on Oonakaska's lonely shore, and the little remnant of population is left with memories and disappointed hopes. Yet a few will cling to the deserted beach to the last breath of life, for such is the unfailing record of every famous camp, to live over again in memory, through the long arctic nights, the stirring scenes of 20 years ago.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

EFFECT OF MIND ON BODY

Worry, Doubt, Fear and Apprehension Make the Physical Organism Susceptible to Disease.

Since all of the cells of the body are more or less intelligent and we think not only with the brain but with the entire physical organism, we can readily see that our thoughts and convictions must affect, according to their nature, all of these cells. We can think health into them, or we can think disease.

What have you been telling these little cell minds in your body, my friend? Have you been filling them with worry and anxiety regarding your health, with fear, with dread, with apprehension? Have you been filling them with doubts, with uncertainties, doubt of your ability, lack of faith, lack of self-confidence? When they are apparently sick, perhaps the victims of your negative thoughts, your discouraging moods, your despondency, are you going to think into them more despondency, more discouragement, more hopelessness, or are you going to stimulate them with hope, faith, confidence, expectancy of better things to come? Are you going to radiate health into them, optimism, joy?—Orison Swift Marden, in Chicago Daily News.

Holland's Day of State.
Although the Dutch are very democratic they still cling to the pageantry that surrounds the movements of their queen on days of state. A case in point being the opening day of their parliament, which is a quaint ceremony. The queen rides in a gilded carriage through the streets of The Hague to the old Knights' hall in Parliament square, and with crown on her head and her gold-braided prince consort at her side sits on the throne. At this ceremony the Dutch cabinet ministers are compelled by tradition to wear gaily uniforms resembling an old-time minstrel man in an admiral's hat. After this one day of pomp the ministers and members of parliament put on their working clothes and get down to business, while the queen, who prides herself on being a typical Dutch woman with domestic tastes, lays her crown aside for another year.

Uncle Billy Is Getting Old and Absent-Minded. One day Aunt Sally, his wife, noticed that he was roaming round from room to room. Presently he called to her from the kitchen. "Sally, have you seen my pipe?" "No, Billy," she answered. "Can't you find it?" "No, I can't," he replied rather crossly. "I've looked upstairs and all over, and I can't find it."

"Didn't you leave it in the bathroom?" asked Aunt Sally. "No, I didn't. I've looked there. Come and look yourself."

As Aunt Sally laid down her paper she heard him laugh.

"Have you found it, Bill?" she asked.

"Yes," he replied. "It was in my mouth."—Youth's Companion.

A Miner of Bullets.

F. H. Lamley, an ore specialist, is removing lead and copper-nickel from the hill back of the target range at Camp Lewis near Tacoma, Wash. By means of a "jig" operated by water power, he shakes the heavy metal from the earth which he is excavating. In three months' time, he expects to get 100 tons of metal valued approximately at $200 a ton, and having cleaned up at Camp Lewis, he will take his apparatus to other camp sites. All of the metal he mines was shot into the hillside by the boys of Uncle Sam's army two years ago. Lamley works on a commission basis. "First man to mine a target range," says Lamley of himself.—League Weekly.

NOT THE ORDINARY ROMANCE

Happily Married Man Has Something Different to Say About the Darling of His Heart.

She wasn't exactly handsome, and yet you couldn't call her plain. Her features were irregular, but interesting, as I heard one of her friends remark.

For instance, one pearly ear of matchless beauty was an inch or so lower than the other.

And her teeth were so splendidly different from the usual. The absence of two of them in front relieved the monotony of the faultless rows of molars that most girls have.

Then again she had a habit of holding her mouth open so that if there were the slightest breeze stirring it would whistle weirdly in and out of the space between her teeth.

Her eyes were fishy blue, and slightly crossed, so that in walking she could not help tripping over her own feet.

She also toed-in a trifle, and when she slipped down the road, daintily tripping in her own charmingly original way, people stopped to look at her.

It used to gratify my vanity to be stared at so whenever I went out with her.

In fact, I may as well out with it, I found her so fascinating that I married her. And ours has been the happy union.

She never bores me. She is a continual source of interest. I keep finding new things wrong with her every day.—London Answers.

HONORS NOT EASILY EARNED

Japanese Wrestlers Who Rise to Fame Are Deserving of the High Position They Attain.

Training for a Japanese wrestler is not easy. The training of our college boys for an athletic event is child's play in comparison. It is not unusual for a novice to be gashed and bleeding after being knocked about the hard gravel of a private arena. Young students come out at 4 on cold mornings and train until 8. Their fat and muscles are hardened by constant running at wooden posts and their heads are hardened by being pushed vigorously against walls. Yet it is a career and boy in Japan's villages aspires to who throws more than the average number of local rivals.

A champion today has 150 or 100 "hands" or devices at his disposal. The aim, a worthy one certainly, is the maximum of force with the minimum of disturbance.

Wrestlers are classified into nine grades, of which only the first three or four have professional importance. In each camp there are three leading lights. The champion, the O-zeki, or second champion; the Seki-waki, or second assistant champion; the Komusubi, the assistant to the second assistant champion. The supreme champion is called the Tokodzona, but there have only been a score of these since Japanese wrestling started in the prepagoda period.

How Burmese Women Smoke.

Merchants smoke their pipes from dawn until dark, in Korea, writes a correspondent. They squat down when they smoke, and as the stems of the pipes are 3 feet long, the bowl can rest on the ground. In Bethlehem the hookah is very popular among the women and it accompanies the morning and afternoon coffee-drinking hour. Several tubes extend from the water bowl through which the smoke passes in a cooling process, and the women gather about the hookah, each selecting a tube, and all drawing smoke from the common bowl. The Burmese maidens smoke a cigar 10 inches long and as fat as a good-sized candle and with a white paper covering. The longest pipes known are those used by natives of the Belgian Congo. These pipes have stems 19 or 12 feet long, with small bowls. If matches were used to light them a friend would be needed to apply the flame, but the native gets his light by merely thrusting the bowl into his camp fire.

For many years I have noticed when the lime trees are in flower the ground beneath them strewn with dead bees (the small humble-bee), states a Scottish correspondent on nature matters. But I don't think this can be the work of bats, as suggested, for the bees are generally whole, outwardly, but their insides are eaten away. Can it be that there is some tiny insect in the lime flower which, fastening on them as they suck the honey, eats into their bodies, and causes them to drop down dead below the tree? I have never noticed any number of bats about the trees of an evening, and besides a bat's mouth would be too large to eat them out like that.

English Coal Miners Peculiar.

The occupation of coal-mining in England is said to pass very largely from father to son and from uncle to nephew. It is a calling to which one is dedicated, and more than any other class of workers the miners share a caste and a people to themselves. It was about a coal miner, or, as he used to be more generally called, a collier, that the famous story of the Broadwood grand used to be told—how he bought the piano out of his monstrous wages and, finding himself unable to play it, took umbrage and kicked it to pieces. The story was generally believed and much grieved over in middle-class Victorian society.

Taxes we can Reduce

Over 150 Years Ago Benjamin Franklin said:

"Friends, the taxes are indeed very heavy, and if those aid by the Government were the only ones we had to pay, we might more easily discharge them; but we have many others, and much more grievous to some of us. We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly; and from these taxes the commissioners cannot ease or deliver us by allowing an abatement."

952 Franklin Cars Shipped in February

Sales Keeping Up to High Level at Syracuse Factory.
Business for the month of February as reported by the Franklin Automobile company of Syracuse show that sales are keeping up to a high level. By February 15 the entire month's production had been sold, and to meet the overdemand the factory was called upon for 100 more cars than planned for. Shipments for the month totaled 952 cars, or within 35 cars of the best February in the company's history—this occurring last year. A new record would have been hung up this year but for the fact that February, 1921 had one less day than February, 1920.

Even with the Franklin factory working on a 40-car-per-day program, which is the present rate of production, it found itself unable to keep up with orders. During February the total number of orders received aggregated 1107, and even the 952-car output fell short of filling orders for February shipment by 155 cars. The manufacturing schedule for March calls for the production of 1031 cars.

Spring Opening AND FASHION DISPLAY

Thursday and Friday, March 17 and 18

As March the 17th is celebrated as the birthday of the honored St. Patrick, the Berryman store wishes to celebrate this already famous day by opening to the public view all the very latest fashions for Spring and Summer wear.

Our Opening Days this season—two days set aside at the very offset of Spring devoted to the presentation of the established modes of Spring stand apart in the chain of store events.

This Year Opening Days Have a Greater Significance than Ever Before in the Store's History. It marks an era of established moderate prices.

Fashions in apparel as well as fabric and trimmings are by this time established both as to style and price and one may select their Spring wardrobe confident that styles are authoritative and prices stabilized.

Spring Wraps will be shown in many pleasing modes, introducing the latest in Spring Suits.

THE FROCKS OF SPRING

Wherever milady's errant fancy may lead her this spring there are frocks to suit the period. Directoire, Russian, Princess, Oriental and Spanish are the influences most evident in new frocks. Slender, straight lines predominate in cloth models for street; while more elaborate styles are found in afternoon modes. Embroidery, eyelet work with underlays of bright silk or suede up to lacy braid and beading vie with handsome fabrics, in making the new frocks creations of such charm.

The Hats of Spring

Directoire modes make their presence felt in the Exposition Millinery by the introduction of the poke bonnet. The Russian Tiara Turban with its high peak is found fashioned of draped silk of exotic design. Cellophane combined with lovely novelty braids, slipper tagal, visca, henri and milan straws are already being used in quantity. Flowers of every size, kind and color are everywhere seen. Feathers smart ornaments and ribbons trim other models designed for milady's use from morning till sunset.

We could almost fill this paper with descriptions of all the new things for Easter and Spring wear, but a visit to our store and an inspection of the new Blouses, Skirts, Gloves, Neckwear, Hosiery, Lingerie, Silks, Cottons and Woollens will be of interest to you.

Our Men's Department will show you the seasonable style for men and boys. In fact the whole store will be dressed up awaiting your inspection and approval. You have just a little over a week in which to purchase your Easter wardrobe. Our reasonable prices will both surprise and please you.

CHAMPS WIN FAST CONTEST FROM OILERS

Winning the championship in the Elks' bowling league was no fluke, as the Champs demonstrated Tuesday evening in their contest with the Oilers, in which they won two games and led their opponents by 33 pins at the end of the fray.

After the Champs had won the championship by disposing of the Packers, the Oilers issued a challenge for three games, total pins to decide, for a supper, in which the losers should entertain the winners. The Champs accepted the "defi," and last night the question of the better team was settled. Both teams settled down to a grueling battle right at the start, but the Champs got the jump and took the first game by 98 pins, but the second was a hair-raiser. The Oilers made a desperate stand, and only lost out by 9 pins. However, in the third frame the Oilers got properly set and won the game by 74 pins but it was not sufficient to overcome the lead of the Champs, who won out by a score of 1930 to 1897.

As a result of the game the members of the Champs team will now go on a diet for five days, in order to be ready for the feast which the Oilers will have prepared for them on Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Elks' dining room. Score:

LADY MACCABEES HOLD ANNUAL INSTALLATION

The annual installation of officers of the Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees was held at Turner Hall last evening. A number of reviews from along the valley were present including Brownsville, Fayette City, Belle Vernon, Monessen, Donora, Bentleyville and Charleroi. The doors were thrown open to the public at 7:30, and many friends assembled to take part in the celebration. Music was furnished by Jenkins' orchestra until 8 p. m. The work of installation was then taken up by the District Deputy of Uniontown, Mary T. Hardwick. The work was well performed and everyone who took part are worthy of much praise. After the officers had been installed, a musical program was rendered.

CIRCLE CLOSES STUDY OF THEIR THIRD BOOK

The Magic City Chautauqua Circle closed Tuesday evening, the third book of the study course. The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pfeighardt and a literary and musical program was enjoyed. "Spanish Highways and Byways," by Katherine Lee, Bates was the book furnished, and the historical events illustrated gave a picturesque setting to the tourist view point. The book purports to be a history of a journey in the land of Spain, among the castles and monuments of the ancient peninsula, and the impressions gained from viewing the ancient paintings in their original settings. Much of the modern grand opera is borrowed from scenes around old Seville and the quaint castles that tell of an old time civilization. The musical program last evening was both vocal and instrumental and the literary contributions added to the charm of the book.

Church Bells.
The Angelus bell, always rung thrice a day, takes its name from the first words of the prayer. In Tuscany a bell is rung an hour before the evening Angelus, or Ave bell, and is intended to remind its hearers to say the creed. The De Profundis bell sounds one hour after the Ave. In Italy on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock thirty-three strokes are sounded in many churches and convents in memory of Christ's death at the age of 33. The custom probably is followed elsewhere.

Valuable Thimbles.
All over the world the thimble is a symbol of industry. Fashion in thimbles is very luxurious in the East. Wealthy Chinese ladies have thimbles carved out of mother-of-pearl, and sometimes the top is a single precious stone. Thimbles with an agate or onyx mounted in gold are often seen, as well as thimbles encrusted with rubies. The queen of Siam possesses a thimble in the form of a lotus-bud, with her name exquisitely worked in tiny diamonds round the margin.

Curing by Suggestion.
There is nothing new in the attempt to cure disease by means of the mind. Many a shrewd physician of a hundred years ago cured patients with bread pills, and kept his secret. There were probably mental healers in Babylon and Assyria. They are known to have existed in Egypt, Greece and Rome, while the American Indian medicine man was unquestionably an adept in the art of suggestion.

The Glory of the Oleanders.
This bright morning we looked from the roof of our veranda, and our neighbor's oleander-trees were glowing like a great crimson cloud; and we said, "There! the oleanders have come back!" No northern ideas can give the glory of these trees as they raise their heads in this their native land, and seem to be covered with great crimson roses.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

When Furniture Is Dented.
For a dent in furniture, first of all wet the spot with warm water. Double a piece of brown paper into six thicknesses, soak in warm water and lay it over the dent. Then apply a hot flatiron until the moisture has quite evaporated. If the bruise has not gone, repeat the process until the dent is raised level with the surface.

Parents' Caprices.
It is no wonder that during infancy and early childhood life's lessons are so difficult for the small beginner when the laws which govern them must seem to him just or unjust, consistent or inconsistent, according to the knowledge or the caprice of the adult administering them.

London policemen work in couples and have adopted the regular policeman's stride—long, slow-measured. As their work is moral suasion, they carry no weapon, but as a means of self defense they have learned jujitsu tricks.

Warning Conveyed by Dream.
To dream you are held up by a footpad signifies that unless you use extreme caution, your enemies will overthrow you. To dream you are one warns you to proceed cautiously in your business.

Lost-Continent Theory.
Dr. William Alanson Bryan, professor of zoology and geology in the college of Hawaii, claims to have discovered traces of a 6,000-mile prehistoric bridge of land between South America and Hawaii.

Gulf Stream.
The gulf stream is more rapid than the Amazon, more impetuous than the Mississippi, and its volume more than 1,000 times greater. The waters are blue, and the line of junction can be easily marked by the eye.

Venerable Sandal Wood.
No wood is so highly used by Hindus in India as sandal wood. Whether living or dead, it has been connected with their religious ceremonies for over fourteen centuries.

Many Species of Bats.
There are about 150 species of bats, and these are distributed over nearly every quarter of the globe. The larger bats are found in the warmer regions.

Pigmy Pigs.
The smallest known species of hog are the pigmy swine of Austria. They are exactly like other hogs in every particular except size, being no longer than a good-sized house rat.

Excusable.
When the mercury is past 85, you have our permission to say sweat instead of perspiration.—Arkansas Thomas Cat.

What Makes a Book.
If a book come from the heart, it will contrive to reach other hearts; all art and authorcraft are of small amount to that.—Carlyle.

Helps the Circulation.
One of the largest New York hotels supplies each of its guests, who average 2,000 a day, with a free copy of a morning newspaper.

Nervous.
It is the man of many parts who should be careful not to go to pieces.—Cartoons Magazine.

DEFENDANTS PAROLED BY ORDER OF COURT

Harry J. Lyons of Pittsburgh and John Budamer of Herriman, who were convicted about ten days ago in the criminal court at Washington and sentenced to the county jail, have been released on parole after paying a fine of $1,000, all costs of the prosecution and paying to Anton March, of Donora, $2,000 with interest at six per cent on that amount of money from January 18, 1925. The parole was originally opposed by District Attorney Erwin Cummins, who believed the men, who had been convicted of conspiracy and false pretense, should have served out the terms of their sentence.

HEAVY TAXES ARE PAID BY CITIZENS

Taxes collected by counties and municipalities for local purposes last year totalled $169,521,885, of which $60,937,418 were used for school purposes, according to figures announced on Monday at Harrisburg by the Bureau of Taxes and Assessments of the department of internal affairs. The report shows that taxes collected for poor purposes amounted to $10,021,712; for construction of streets, roads and bridges, $34,589,004, and for all other purposes $60,937,418.

RULED KING IN SUCCESSION

Three Sisters of Noble Family Who Became the Favorites of Great French Monarch.

King Louis XIV of France felt in love with three sisters, one after the other, the daughters of the marquis of Nesle. The first was not a beauty, but she was a clever woman and a good dresser. Her reign ended after three years, when her younger sister appeared. The king's devotion to the first sister was a secret until Louis, after indulging too heavily in champagne, paid a call upon his wife, who was so disgusted by his condition that she ordered him to leave her presence. He was bitterly angered, and a few days later he publicly acknowledged his devotion to Mme. de Mally. Her younger sister, Pauline, came to the palace with the firm intent of winning the king from her sister. She did, but died suddenly shortly after her success. Then the third sister, Marie Anne, the young widow of the marquis of Tournelle, the most able, the most unscrupulous and the most beautiful of the family, appeared. Mme. de la Tournelle, in love with a young nobleman, refused to listen to the king. Louis sent his rival to war, but the young man came back wounded, and a hero. A young woman of great beauty was instructed to woo the king's rival, which she did so effectively that his passionate letters to her were sent to the king, who promptly showed them to Mme. de la Tournelle.

This crafty plot was successful, and the ambitious favorite, after insisting that her sister should be sent away, was given an official place at court and the title of the duchess of Chateauroux.

BIG RANCHES ONLY MEMORY

Progress of Civilization Has Done Away With the Picturesque Life of the Old West.

The big horse ranches have virtually gone out of existence with the passing of the Long X in Montana, says the Christian Science Monitor. The big cattle ranch long since succumbed to the onward march of the sheep ranger and the wired fence, and it was felt to be only a matter of time before the horse ranch would follow suit.

In this connection it is interesting to recall the circumstance that though the horse was unknown on the American continent when the Spaniards arrived, prehistoric evidences of the animal have been discovered in both North and South America. The Indians, who had domesticated the llama, the alpaca, and the dog, knew nothing of the horse, and were astonished by the sight of the strange and unfamiliar animals which the newcomers rode. Yet, with their introduction by the white races, horses which escaped soon ran wild and flourished on the same ranges where their ancient cousins had apparently lived, showing how well the country was suited to their needs. There are a few ranches today in the West where the rug in the principal room may be the hide of a wild horse, found in Nevada or in Arizona canyons.

The Ancient Writers.

The excellence of the ancient writers does not consist in a trick that can be learned, but in a perfect adaptation of means to ends. The secret of the style of the great Greek and Roman authors is that it is the perfection of good sense. In the first place, they never use a word without a meaning, or a word which adds nothing to the meaning; they knew what they wanted to say, and their whole purpose was to say it with the highest degree of exactness and completeness, and bring it home to the mind with the greatest possible clearness and vividness. . . . The ancients were concise because of the extreme pains they took with their epithets; almost all moderns are prolix because they do not. The great ancients could express a thought so perfectly in a few words or sentences, that they did not need to add any more.—John Stuart Mill.

Lying, a term in which we include deception of every kind, is the root of more evil in the world than the love of money ever was, though the latter is responsible for enough, in all conscience, and the two evils work handily together. If frank honesty were the rule of the world, boys, grown into men, would sin occasionally, but not frequently or continuously, as many of us do now. Deception is the great protector of crime, the great shield of vice. Eliminate it absolutely and you sever the tap roots of profiteering, defrauding of the employer, impurity, hypocrisy in the church, political corruption and wars of aggression.—Exchange.

Thermometer Scales.

There are several different systems of dividing the thermometer scale. The one in common use in all English-speaking countries is the Fahrenheit. In this the boiling point is 212 degrees, and the freezing point 32 degrees above zero. In the Centigrade thermometer, the freezing point is taken as the zero, and the boiling point is reckoned at 100 degrees. It will thus be seen that the 100 degrees on the Centigrade scale and the 180 degrees (212 minus 32) on the Fahrenheit scale represent the same difference in temperature namely that between the freezing and boiling point.

Exercise Can Be Overdone.

There is a great deal of fallacy about the assumed value of exercise in the open air, states the Medical Record. In moderation, that is within the individual limits prescribed by bodily limitations fixed by nature for each person, nothing is better. Proper exercise is as essential as food or air, but the growing boy in his excess of enthusiasm and knowing no limits to his endurance greatly oversteps his bounds in many cases and invites disaster.

Music Increases Output.

Transplanting rice in the Philippines costs about 40 centavos a day, with two meals, cigarettes and betel nut, but when music is provided the output of work is increased 50 per cent, says the New York Medical Journal. It is often a blind man who plays. He sits on the low dyke and sings the old folk songs to his guitar, and frequently the workers join in the chorus. Some of the large stores in the States also tried the effect of music with good results.

A Touch of Witchery.

Witchery is always a mystifying game to play. One of the players leaves the room, agreeing to tell who of the company holds his right hand high over the head while he is out of the room. When he returns all hands are extended to him and he can detect at a glance the hand he seeks, because the blood has left it, leaving it whiter than the others.—Exchange.

Believe in Yourself.

The most difficult thing in the world is to make people believe in their own bigness, to take stock in their own latent ability. If we had a larger conception of our possibilities, a larger faith in ourselves, even those who are accounted successful could accomplish infinitely more than they do.—Orison Swett Marden, in "You Can, but Will You?"

Definition of a Friend.

Some one defined a friend as "one who is truer to me than I am to myself." We are not always true to our selves, and one of the highest offices of friendship is to hold the life true to its best. The love that does not make us long to be better and stronger for its sake, and in gratitude for its possession, is not the highest type of love.

A Bird of a Pun.

The prize for the season's worst pun goes to Christopher Morley. Observing four ladies waiting outside a pay car on a siding, ready to "bone" the men as they come out for a contribution to some, doubtless, worthy cause, he paraphrastically commented: "Where the car-cash is, there are the muet yers."—Boston Transcript.

No Wars Among Eskimos.

Warfare and brutality of any kind is unknown among the Eskimos. When they have differences they adjust them by staging "singing duels," the old men of the tribe acting as judges. In their hunting expeditions they endeavor to give their quarry as little pain as possible.

Pleasing the Maid.

"George," said the hostess to her husband, "will you ring the bell and tell the social secretary to serve lunch?" Then she answered the look of surprise on the faces of her guests. "I really keep her by calling her that, you know. It pleases her, and after all she does do the lettuce."

Character in the Face.

A high forehead, as long, if not longer than the length of the nose, with small, closed nostrils and the lower lip compressed against the upper in the center, denotes chastity. A face in form rather oval than broad, with the above characteristics, is indelibly stamped with the mark of purity.

Insects Cause Big Loss.

Shade trees and ornamental shrubs in the United States represent a value of $1,000,000,000, according to the estimate of the United States Department of Agriculture. Ten million dollars' damage is done annually by shade-tree insects.

To dream of your sight is a good omen. To dream you are near-sighted denotes annoyance from enemies. To dream you see a great distance signifies long life. A gunsight foretells quarrels.

Smiling Face Means Much.

I often meet people on crowded streets whom I have never seen before and whom I may never see again, whose hopeful, smiling, cheerful faces are very helpful to me.—Thoreau.

Follow the Right Path.

Choose always the way that seems the best, however rough it may be. Custom will render it easy and agreeable.—Pythagoras.

BROKE HEART OF SCIENTIST

Learned Man, Victim of Thoughtless Practical Joke, Proved Unable to Live It Down.

What is believed to be the greatest hoax in the history of science was played over a century ago by students of Prof. Bartholomaeus Adam Berlinger, holder of the chair of natural philosophy at the University of Wurzburg. He was keenly interested in fossil remains, and was the leader in the great group that held them to be a sort of divine joke, placed in the earth by God to test human faith. Students designed a score or more of fossils from clay representing the most absurd beasts their imaginations could conceive, and hid them in the ground in a spot where the old paleontologist was known to frequently dig. He discovered them and accepted them as real, and when a little later the students hid other designs, showing stars and suns and even inscriptions in Hebrew, Syrian and Babylonian, the old man was delighted and was sure he had proven his grounds. He began a book of immense size, and written in Latin, in which he gravely set forth his proofs of the divine origin. The shout of laughter that went up when the book was issued broke the old man's heart, and he died after spending every cent he had in an effort to recall the book. What made the joke more serious was the faith with which many learned men accepted the thing at first. Berlinger's reputation up to this time being high in the world of science.

STORING WORDS IN MEMORY

What May Be Described as Mental Photography Is Especially Valuable to Theatrical People.

The photographic memory is found most frequently in actors and actresses, who have to study a variety of parts in a very short time. After a time, these people form a habit of getting a mental photograph of the words. They look at the page, read the lines, and then, shutting their eyes, endeavor to "see" the words. It is a habit which, once formed, is quickly developed. The present writer once "crammed" a part of forty-five pages in a single day by the aid of this natural photograph.

It may be said at once that not everybody can acquire this species of memory. Only those possessed of great powers of concentration can achieve the results described. But, providing that a person has anything of this gift, he can build upon it until it will serve him to an almost unlimited degree.

The photographic memory usually finds its best development among people with what are called "bumpy" foreheads. They have unusual powers of visual concentration.—Exchange.

Two Atomic Theories.

An atom is a part so small as not to be divisible. It is an ultimate particle of matter. Two opinions, directly opposite to each other, have long had currency with regard to the constituent particles of material things; the one, that matter is composed of an assemblage of minute particles, or atoms, incapable of further division; the other, that there is no limit to its divisibility, the smallest conceivable particle still consisting of an infinity of parts. The first of these theories, which is commonly distinguished by the name of atomic philosophy, was originated in Greece by Leucippus; it was supported by Democritus and subsequently improved by Epicurus and his disciples. The Epicureans professed to account for the origin and formation of all things by supposing that these atoms were endowed with gravity and motion, and thus came together into the different organized bodies.

A little consideration of the materials that enter into the making of lamps would be a revelation to the large majority of electric lamp users. California, Colorado, Nevada and South Dakota lead in the production of tungsten ore, the important material of which the filament of the modern electric lamp is made.

First, there is the filament of tungsten, then the glass bulb into which enter silica, soda, nitre from Chile, potash, manganese from Russia, arsenic, borax, feldspar, lead, aluminum, cryolite from Greenland, cobalt from Canada. The base of the lamp is made of copper and zinc from Utah and Missouri, while the basing cement is a mixture of marble dust from Vermont, whitening from Ohio, shellac from India and pine resin from Georgia.

Wonderful Is Human Skin.

The human skin, which forms a protective covering over the whole of the body, consists of two layers, an outer one and an inner one. The epidermis, or outer skin, is so constructed that no moisture from outside can penetrate it so long as the skin itself is not torn or cut. At the same time the pores of the skin are so formed that the sweat is freely discharged through the skin, thus ventilating the body and keeping it at an even temperature. If someone could invent a material possessing the properties of the human skin, a material which would keep out all moisture, however heavy the down-pour of rain and yet allow the free escape of the heat and moisture of
